

NORTHERN KENTUCKY RIGHT TO LIFE

The March for Life January 22, 2023

On this 50th anniversary of the infamous decision of the Supreme Court exercising its raw judicial power over the lives of the defenseless unborn, we join with a multitude of others in many cities across this nation to give witness to the sanctity of all innocent human life and to the intrinsic evil act of abortion.

Again, we march on paper. We openly lend our names to urge the adoption of a mandatory Human Life Amendment to the Constitution of the United States of America.

WE HAVE TAKEN A STAND!

WE WILL NOT COMPROMISE!

AND WE WILL BE HEARD!

LOVE THEM BOTH CHOOSE LIFE

If abortion was not legal, would women die from being denied necessary medical treatment?

A woman carrying a child is always entitled to receive reasonably necessary medical treatment for a pathological physical condition which imminently threatens her physical life, even if the unintended result is the death of the child.

According to the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, an induced abortion is a procedure intended to terminate a pregnancy so that it does not result in a live birth. In other words, the specific purpose of an induced abortion is to end the life of a preborn child. From a medical standpoint, this is never necessary. The fact is clear in the case of miscarriage management, which in no way involves ending a life, only the removal of an embryo or fetus who is already deceased," teaches Christina Francis, M.D., a board member and CEO-elect of the American Association of Pro-Life OB/GYNs.

Other difficult pregnancy conditions may require doctors to separate a mother from her preborn child to save her life - but this is not the same as an abortion," continued Dr. Francis. "For example, even Planned Parenthood acknowledges that managing an ectopic pregnancy - in which the embryo implants outside of the uterus, often causing life-threatening hemorrhage - is not an abortion. Other pregnancy complications, such as chorioamnionitis - an infection of the fetal membranes potentially leading to sepsis - must be treated by separating the mother and preborn child via premature delivery. ...They allow doctors to attempt to preserve the child's life - or, if that's not possible, to treat them with the dignity they deserve."

Under Christian moral teaching, the principle of double effect states that at times it may be permissible to perform a morally good or neutral action (removal of a cancerous uterus) that has a good result (saving the life of the mother), even if it indirectly causes an undesirable and unintended effect (the death of an unborn child).

"In my 36 years of pediatric surgery, I have never known of one instance where the child had to be aborted to save the mother's life," states former late U.S. Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, M.D., world renowned pediatric surgeon at Children's Hospital of Philadelphia.

In Evangelium Vitae, issued by St. Pope John Paul II in 1995, he stated: "We are facing an enormous and dramatic clash between good and evil, death and life, the 'culture of death' and the 'culture of life.' We find ourselves not only 'faced with' but necessarily 'in the midst of' this conflict: we are all involved and we all share in it, with the inescapable responsibility of choosing to be unconditionally pro-life. "Abortion and euthanasia are thus crimes which no human law can claim to legitimize."
